

Dr James Whitehorn

ID Specialist & Tropical Medicine Researcher, London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine

Dr James Whitehorn is a physician specialising in infectious diseases and microbiology. He has a particular interest in tropical infectious diseases and has worked as a doctor in Africa (Zambia, Uganda & Sierra Leone) and Asia (Vietnam). He recently returned to the UK after spending 4 years at the Oxford University Clinical Research Unit in Vietnam conducting clinical research on dengue. In addition, he worked with Save the Children in Sierra Leone in 2015 as part of the Ebola response. He will start a clinical lectureship in 2016 at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine combining clinical work in infectious diseases and research in tropical medicine.