

Biosketch

Dr. Raymond Lai

Dr. Lai is currently working as the Cluster Infection Control Officer of New Territory East Cluster of Hong Kong and the Chief of Service of the Department of Microbiology of the Prince of Wales Hospital. He is appointed as the Chief Infection Control Officer of Hospital Authority since June 2018. Dr. Lai is a clinical microbiologist by training and he earned his Fellowship of the Hong Kong College of Pathologists in 1997. His interests include all aspects of infection control and laboratory management, with particular interests in the control of Multidrug Resistant Microorganisms, Hand Hygiene, Antibiotics Stewardship Program and rapid laboratory diagnosis.