

Paul Ananth Tambyah

Biographical Sketch

Dr Paul Ananth Tambyah is currently Associate Professor of Medicine and Senior Consultant Infectious Diseases Physician at the National University of Singapore. After completing medical school in Singapore, he trained in Infectious Diseases at the University of Wisconsin under Dr Dennis Maki and since his return to Singapore, he has held several positions including Asst Dean of the School of Medicine, Founding head of the Division of Infectious Diseases. He was a Board Member of the Society of Healthcare Epidemiology in America and a member of the planning committee of the Infectious Diseases Society of America. He is currently President of the Society of Infectious Diseases Singapore and a Council Member of the Asia Pacific Committee on Clinical Microbiology and Infection. His main research interests are in device associated infections and nosocomial influenza and other emerging infectious diseases.